CURRICULUM IS REVAMPED

SEVERAL CHANGES TO TAKE EFFECT AT COLLEGE.

MORE SPECIALIZATION

Students Intending to Teach in Grades to Take Different Course From High School.

A number of important changes in curriculum have been made at the State Teachers College, to go into effect with the beginning of the regular school year in September. These changes, for the elementary certificate, the life certificate, and the Bachelor of Science degree in Education, were made by the faculty of the College in a series of meetings held during the month of June.

A full explanation of the curriculum changes will be made in the College catalog, which will go to the printer next week. The catalog this time will be a two-year affair. M. E. Seelman, director of information at the College, has been busy for a month re-writing the book, and it will be a much more extensive and worth while publication under the new system. It will be the policy at the College in the future to issue a catalog every two years.

Chief among the changes in the course of study for the degree is the differentiation according to specialized training within the field of education. In the future, persons preparing to teach in high schools will take one kind of specialized work, while those preparing to teach in elementary schools will take another specialized course. The diploma will differentiate between the two.

Another important change is the choice which will be given a student to take three minors instead of a major and a minor. The fields in which the minors are taken must be approved by the chairman of the department of education, and the minors must be approved by the chairman of the departments in which they are taken.

The foreign language requirement has been changed somewhat. In the future no foreign language will be required of students majoring in agriculture, commerce, home economics, industrial arts, music, physical education, and supervision. Students majoring in such academic subjects as biology, English, fine arts, foreign languages, mathematics, physical sciences, and social sciences will be subject to the requirement of seven and one-half hours of foreign language. Several other changes have been made, but they are of a minor nature and pertain only to the certificate courses to make them conform to new requirements of the State Department of Education.

BONDS UP TO PAGE COUNTY

IOWANS TO VOTE JULY 25 ON $900,000 ISSUE.

OPPONENTS ORGANIZE

Petition With 2,196 Signatures Asks Election—Issue in Montgomery County Carries.

Page County, Iowa, will have a special election on Monday, July 25, to vote on a proposition to issue $900,000 in bonds to pave and gravel the primary roads of that county, according to Thursday's Clarinda Herald.

The program includes gravel for Federal Highway No. 71 north and south through that county; gravel on No. 84 from No. 71 to College Springs; paving of No. 3 east and west across that county; and grading, bridging and gravel on No. 48 at least from Shenandoah to Escuse.

The date of the election was set at a meeting of the board of supervisors held Thursday morning, when petitions signed by 3196 voters of that county asked for the election.

Already an organization has been perfected against the bond issue, known as the "citizens who are opposed to the bond issue as proposed." It was said they were against the bond issue as a business proposition but not against good roads. They object to an issue which they declare uses approximately two-thirds of the money for paving one road across the county to the exclusion of the others.

By a vote of 2619 to 2142, a majority of 477, Montgomery County, of which Red Oak, the county seat, Monday approved the bond issue to surface most of its primaries.

The program includes paving U. S. No. 34 across the county east and west, pave south on U. S. No. 71 south from No. 34 to Villisca, gravel from Stanton to No. 34, and gravel No. 48 from Red Oak south to the Page County line. There will be no surfacing on No. 71 north of No. 34.

Most Of Them To Spend Short Vacation Out Of Town.—Women's "Date" Rules Suspended.

There will be an exodus of some 1000 persons from Maryville this afternoon and tonight. Students of the State Teachers College will be excused from classwork on Monday, the Fourth, and most of them plan to spend the short vacation outside of Maryville.

Miss Edith A. Barnard, dean of women at the College, has announced that date rules will be suspended from this afternoon until Tuesday, but that the hour when students shall be in their rooms will be unchanged. In other words, women students of the school may have engagements with men every night until Tuesday, providing they are in their rooms by 10:30 p. m.

FOURTH HERE TO BE QUIET

NONE OF COUNTY TOWNS PLAN BIG CELEBRATIONS.

MANY PICNIC DINNERS

Country Club To Have Fireworks Display. And Several Baseball Games Are Scheduled.

The Fourth of July in Nodaway County will be observed quietly this year.

No town in the county has announced anything like the big celebrations that took place in former years, with elaborate programs, a speaker of the day, contests and a riot of color and noise making by huge gatherings.

Instead, basket dinners, two or three baseball games, golf, swimming, fishing and some fireworks will mark this anniversary of the United States' declaration of Independence.

Maryville residents will have an opportunity to witness a ball game at the Fair Grounds between the Maryville Comets and Union Star. In the evening will be an extensive display of daylight and evening fireworks at the Maryville Country Club. F. G. Shoemaker today announced the Country Club officials will try to accommodate all who wish to see the display.

The day will start early at the Country Club with the playing of regular matches in the President's tournament, a women's putting contest, and "pick-up" matches. Many basket dinners are being planned by the members at the Club, while dinner and supper will be served at the club house. In the evening there will be a dance for the club members and out-of-town guests.

Stanberry and Grant City have made announcements of celebrations for the day. M. L. Cain of Pickering said that the Pickering baseball team will play the Burlington Junction club at Burlington. Barnard will probably play the St. Joseph Sporting Goods Club on the home grounds. The other teams of the County League have not scheduled games as yet for the Fourth.

Many picnics are being planned by families and by various clubs throughout the county.

All the stores in Maryville will be closed except the groceries, which will stay open until 11 a. m. It was announced at the postoffice today that there would be a business house delivery in the morning. The windows will be closed all day, but the postoffice lobby will be open from 7 to 12, and (Continued on Page 8).

FALSE REPORT OF LANDING IS CELEBRATED

Joy Is Given Premature Expression in This Country Before Byrd's True Flight Is Learned.

New York, July 1.—Commander Richard E. Byrd and his companions aboard the Monoplane "America" landed on the Normandy coast early today, hours after scores of newspapers, watchers at Roosevelt field and relatives of the fliers had celebrated an erroneously reported landing of the America near Paris.

The United Press flashed the word that Byrd and his companions were down near Ver Sur Mer, on the coast of Normandy.

At no time previous to that during the long night watch did the United Press say the plane had landed elsewhere.

AIR SERVICE TO THE COAST

PASSENGER LINE FROM CHICAGO WEST INAUGURATED TODAY.

GO IN MAIL PLANES

Boeing Air Transport Co., Taking Over Government Contracts, Announces 20-Hour Schedule.

Chicago, July 1.—Regular passenger air service between Chicago and San Francisco was inaugurated today when the Boeing Air Transport Co., took over the government air mail contracts.

The trip from Chicago to the west coast can be made in twenty hours, less than one-third of the time required by the fastest train.

Passengers are carried in the regular mail planes.

Although the primary business of the company for the next few days will be to comply with the mail contracts, it is understood offices will be opened here sometime next week and an effort made to solicit passenger business.

The Boeing company now has headquarters in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Deny Plans for a Flight to Manila

Washington, July 1.—The army plans no Manila flight, Secretary of War Davis and Assistant Secretary Davison asserted emphatically today in answer to rumors that the army intended such a hop.

ELMO BOY IS GONE A WEEK

GLEN FARQUHAR, 14, ADOPTED. CAN'T BE FOUND.

REWARD IS OFFERED

Mrs. Alma Farquhar Seeks News of Foster Son; Came From Orphan's Home.

A week ago today Glen Farquhar, 14 years old, adopted son of Mrs. Alma Farquhar of Elmo, disappeared from home and he has not been heard from since that time.

No particular reason is known for his leaving home. Mrs. Farquhar thought at first that he might be attempting to reach the home of some of his own relatives who live in northern Iowa.

The boy was adopted from an orphan's home when he was 7 years old. His grandparents live in Humeston, Ia. Mrs. Farquhar is a widow. She has two children of her own. Anyone receiving any information regarding the boy is asked to call Mrs. Farquhar at Elmo.

"The boy stayed downtown all of the time, and I told him to go down and stay until he had enough. I had no idea he would leave town," Mrs. Farquhar said today.

The mother has appealed to Sheriff Campbell here to assist her in the hunt. She is anxious that she be telephoned or telegraphed at her expense in case any information of the boy is learned. A reward is offered for information concerning his whereabouts.

A letter from Mrs. Jesse Williams near Forbes, Mo., received by Mrs. Farquhar stated that a boy filling the description of Glen to the most minute detail, had been there this week. She gave him food. Shortly after he left she heard the boy's description broadcast from a Shenandoah, Ia., radio station.

A letter from the boy's grandparents at Humeston revealed that he had not been there. The letter was received by Mrs. Farquhar today.

The boy took some of his belongings with him including an extra suit. The boy was in the eighth grade at school and only missed a half day last year.

"He was good to work when he was home, but he was never here," the foster mother said.

George Ulmer, Jr., of Hopkins was in Maryville on business today.

Congratulations Sent by Coolidge

Cabinet Heads Also Send Messages to Byrd and His Companions Aboard the "America."

Washington, July 1.—President Coolidge and cabinet heads today sent congratulations to Commander Richard E. Byrd and his companions for flying across the Atlantic.

The State Department made public the President's message as follows:

"I send you my sincere congratulations on your successful flight. I have followed your distinguished and courageous career in aerial navigation with interest and admiration. Your flight to the North Pole proved the effectiveness of the airplane in adding to scientific knowledge of the unexplored surface of the world, and I am sure your present flight will advance our present knowledge of conditions."

5-INCH GUNS FOR NEW SUBS

TRI-POWER COMMISSION AGREES ON UNDERSEA BOATS.

TONNAGE IS PROBLEM

British Plan for 600 Tons for Coastal Work and 1,600 Tons for Distance Cruising Gains Favor.

Geneva, July 1.—The technical commission of the tri-power naval limitations conference took another step toward a final agreement today when it decided on limitation of submarines' armament to 5-inch guns.

The commission then adjourned until tomorrow, when an agreement may be reached on the tonnage on each of the two types of submersible craft which would be permitted under the British proposals.

The British plan, which has found some favor among the Japanese and American delegations, is to restrict submarines to craft of 600 tons for coastal work and 1,600 tons for distance cruising.

The agreement on gun size was considered hopeful because heretofore the three delegations had shown wide divergence on the question.

Special Watch Along Mexican Border Made

Vigilance Exercised to Prevent Further Smuggling of Arms and Munitions, Is Report.

Brownville, Tex., July 1.—It was unofficially reported here today that the Mexican government has ordered special vigilance along the border to prevent further smuggling of arms and munitions into that country.

Two recent attempts to enter Mexico with large shipments of arms and munitions at California and Matamoras have been reported.

Special scout planes will be used to thwart smuggling, besides additions to the infantry and cavalry forces stationed at various forces along the Rio Grande river, it was reported.

Navy Flier May Try a Philippine Flight

Lieut. George E. Pond, Retired, Discusses Two-Hop Plan.—May Make It Japan.

Washington, July 1.—Lieutenant Geo. R. Pond, retired navy flier, may attempt about August 1 a flight to the Philippines or Japan in two hops, according to reports here today.

It was revealed he had consulted Admiral Moffett, navy air chief, about obtaining instruments necessary for such a venture.

Second Hearing of Million-Dollar Libel Action Against Ford Follows Mistrial.

Detroit, Mich., July 1.—A new trial of Aaron Sapiro's $1,000,000 libel suit against Henry Ford and the Dearborn Independent was set tentatively today for September 12 by Federal Judge M. Raymond.

The first hearing of the suit terminated April 21 in a mistrial.

BYRD AND COMPANIONS TO SHORE IN RUBBER BOAT.

HAD REACHED PARIS

Unable To Land Because Of Dense Fog, Plane Circles Back.—May Be Repaired.

Washington, July 1.—J. Lansing Tallen said here today Commander Richard E. Byrd plans to fly to the South Pole in September.

Grace Postpones Start.

Barking Sands, Island of Kauai, July 1.—The attempted trans-Pacific plane flight of Dick Grace, Pasadena, Cal., aviator, was postponed until 2 p. m. today. Honolulu time, which is 4:30 p. m. Pacific coast time, according to an announcement made by Lieutenant E. B. Koger, Grace's flight manager.

Weather conditions were reported improving, but Koger said Grace must wait until the wind has dropped below fifteen miles an hour.

Flight of Great Value.

Washington, July 1.—Although, strictly speaking, he failed of his purpose—that of landing in Paris—Commander Richard E. Byrd's flight in the monoplane "America" was hailed by experts today as definitely having completed the conquest of the air for practical purposes.

The skill with which he prepared for his transatlantic flight, the very nature of his difficulties and the fact that he "came through" in an especially provided rubber boat after alighting at sea—all these made his attempt of historic and scientific value, it was said.

The scientific data secured by Byrd is expected to be most valuable in planning future transatlantic flights.

Ver-Sur-Mer, France, July 1.—After hours of blindly flying in impenetrable darkness, rain and fog, Commander Richard E. Byrd and his three companions in the monoplane "America", came down in the English Channel, 300 yards from shore, near daybreak today.

They ended their amazing flight across the Atlantic from New York by paddling ashore in a little collapsible rubber boat they had taken along with them.

The village was asleep. France became officially informed of the landing when the tired aviators made for the only light in town, the lighthouse—and awakened the keeper.

Plane Hauled to Shore.

He in turn roused sailors and fishermen nearby, and they, under Byrd's direction, hauled the plane to shore.

The back fuselage and wings of the "America" were broken.

The plane was salvaged this afternoon, with the assistance of fishermen. The plane was dragged up on the beach and the engines were dismantled.

Every piece of equipment that could be saved was stowed away.

Commander Byrd was hopeful that the plane can be completely restored to use. Much of the scientific data obtained by the fliers was lost in the sudden descent.

The four fliers, Byrd, Bert Acosta, Lieutenants George Noville and Bernt Balchen, were sleeping soundly this morning at the village hotel.

As they slept, automobiles filled with French and American officials were hurrying from Le Bourget field to congratulate and care for the men, who had gone safely through as perilous a voyage as ever recorded either in air or on sea.

Theoretically the argonauts had reached Paris, their goal. Since early last night they had been circling over France, the drone of their engines occasionally penetrating down to the ground as the plane, helpless in the stormy night, cruised above, trying to find a rift through which they could see a spot to land.

BETTER THAN JEWELS

A New York millionaire named Albert Lorsh, who died a year or two ago, had made his fortune in precious stones. In appraising that fortune now, the state tax commission finds that of the total $3,190,000, only $950 is in jewelry. The owner did not care to keep the jewels that passed through his hands. He preferred money, and stocks and bonds representing money.

In India or China the whole fortune might have consisted in a treasure box full of precious stones. But not in America.

Rich men in countries old in civilization but primitive in finance hoard jewels and gold unproductively, as the only safe liquid form of wealth they are familiar with. America, with a good banking system, regards bank notes and securities as an altogether trustworthy form of treasure, and expresses wealth in dollars and makes those dollars work, thus multiplying her wealth.

It is a feeling that dollars should earn their living which explains the comparatively little jewelry owned by the average American.

Rich people never know the joy of paying the last installment on something.

When it goes by ship, we call it a cargo but when it goes by car, we call it a shipment.

The best that can be said for some husbands is that they helped to reduce the number of old maids.

The Fourth of July will be a general holiday. Why not make a holiday also from the usual accidents and killings from reckless driving.

Ladies of the early day were no more particular than now days. One of them married Cain and people have been raising cane ever since.

Daniel Guggenheim, one of the wise men of this day and generation in connection with money and finances recently said:

"The United States has $13,000,000,000 owing from foreign nations. A country in that situation cannot fail to have prosperity for a long time to come."

"Micky" Harrison, our good friend who publishes the Gullfutu North Missourian, says he was down at West Plains, Mo., the other day and when two automobiles crashed into each other a bystander shouted, "Go ahead, you didn't do a thing but shake the chattel mortgage." And he might have been right, at that.—Acheson County Mail.

"America" Comes Down in Channel Off French Coast

Had Reached Paris.

They had circled over Le Bourget and then gone back to the French coast. They finally came down here, 125 miles from Le Bourget flying field, after more than forty hours in the air.

Their actual mileage never will be computed. They flew many more miles than did Lindbergh but during the last hours futilely in circles.

The plane had been almost over Paris at midnight. Searchlights played on the ground until morning, but Byrd probably did not fly low enough at any time to make out the illuminated field through the fog.

Byrd appeared ill. Going upstairs in the lighthouse he stumbled.

Most of the airplane's delicate instruments have been saved. The American's landing wheels and a raft were found on the beach.

It seemed this morning definitely that Byrd had been forced down through lack of oil and gasoline and that his central motor had not been working.

Over Land Late Yesterday.
The America's ocean flight was completed at about 5 p. m. yesterday when the plane passed beyond the area of vessels at sea and began making direct contact with radio stations along the channel coast. First the Brest then the Quessant stations reported hearing the plane but they were unable to determine its exact position.

A few minutes later the Cherbourg navy wireless received a message from Byrd giving the plane's position at 50.3 north latitude and 3.54 west longitude. That placed the America at the mouth of the channel, a few miles south of Falmouth, at the southwestern tip of England.

One of the largest coffee producers in this country is quoted as saying that the children of America are being rapidly transformed into nervous wrecks "by excessive movie attendance, in temperate coffee drinking and late hours." "Overindulgence in coffee is probably the greatest contributing cause to juvenile neurasthenia," he said. Youngsters are excitable enough without being keyed up with false stimulation. Overindulgent and unthinking mothers would do well to give a thought to this suggestion from a man who knows whereof he speaks. Children are harmed by too much coffee especially by the kind that is frequently made with an excessive amount of tannic acid and caffeine. They would also do well to remember that children are better off in bed early and asleep than being dragged to a picture show or to any other entertainment every other night.

Grown folks who want to go should provide a way to leave little children at home.

Opposes "Tinkering" With Constitution

Iowa City, July 1.—The craze for "tinkering" with the Constitution will end in the complete absorption of state sovereignty by the Washington government and the destruction of the balance of power between state and national governments, prophesied F. Dumon Smith, Hutchinson, Kan., chairman of the committee on American citizenship of the American Bar Association here recently.

He declared that the federal government has destroyed the balance of power between the states and the federal government to such an extent that soon the states and the federal government to such extent that soon the states will be geographical expressions reduced to the rank of counties. He said that when that day comes the

Suitor Says It With Kindling When Seeking Formosan Bride

London, July 1.—If you fall in love on the Island of Formosa and want to marry a Formosan beauty: Say it with kindlewood.

A bundle of kindlewood is the native means of expressing a proposal of marriage in Formosa, according to a British consular official who has just returned from Japan after spending some time studying conditions on the Island the name of which appears on so many packages of tea.

Generally, like in almost every other part of the world, the man proposes marriage in Formosa after a period of time which varies with the temperament of the courted female.

First of all, the suitor makes arrangements through a third party to notify his "would-be" of his "intentions." Then, after he has accomplished this elementary mark of good breeding, regardless of how the object of these "intentions" feels about the matter, the wooer commences his campaign.

Following the "notification of intentions," the home-seeker procures a bundle of firewood which he carefully places upon the doorstep of his lady-love. This formality is accomplished in the dark of night, assuring the suitor of privacy exempt of publicity.

On the next night, the suitor returns. If his bundle of wood is still there, it is a sure indication that his purest feelings are considered in the light of annoyance and a silent request that the nuisance be immediately discontinued. If however, the bundle has disappeared, then the wooer may consider himself at liberty to keep up the good work.

And so, night after night the "fortunate" male continues his nocturnal business of "wood spooning" until the time when—either because the lady has received enough wood, or because perhaps she feels her suitor has displayed sufficient perseverance—he is invited to enter the threshold of happiness. From then on, the couple are considered to be engaged and soon after they become man and wife.

Sometimes however these affairs become complicated by the desire of certain fickle Formosans to change their minds after they have received a certain supply of kindlewood. In such cases, the "unfortunate" suitor is informed of his disgrace by the fact that upon one of his nocturnal visits to the doorstep of his dreams, he finds the bundle of wood left there upon his previous visit, untouched.

That is how they return "engagement rings," in Formosa.

representative American republic will have vanished.

Smith attacked the twelfth, fourteenth, fifteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, and nineteenth amendments as non-essential additions to the constitution as framed by the fathers. He said the eighteenth amendment was "absolutely unsound," while he classed the nineteenth as a law "submitted like the others, through the cowardice and timidity of Congress."

He attacked the seventeenth amendment by saying that it was a "fallacious in its operation as the initiative and referendum, the recall and the direct primary."

The speaker asserted that there are not today in both house of Congress a dozen men of real distinction.

June Here Far From a Month of Brides

Only 17 Licenses to Wed Issued in Last Thirty Days.—February Holds Record So Far.

The tradition that June is the bridal month failed to hold true in Nodaway County this year.

Cupid failed miserably last month, even falling behind his record for the shortest and coldest month of the year. February this year was the record breaker, Jack Greeson, reporting a license issued each day of the month.

Last month saw only seventeen marriage licenses issued in Nodaway County, one less than June last year.

Make reservations early.

Tempus sure fugits I'll say she does!

It seems to me this ad is a good place to air a few remarks on the increasing value of time.

A fellow who dropped in here the other day to buy a tire summed it all up about as well as anybody could.

"In the old days," he remarked, "when we traveled by stagecoach, things were different. It didn't bother a man much if he missed one coach, even if it would be two or three days before the next one came along.

"Today, you'll hear the same sort of citizen bawl like a bee-stung bear if he misses the first compartment in a revolving door."

Quality That Saves Time

What has all this to do with Goodyear Tires? Well, quite a good deal.

A good part of my retail tire business is with men whose time is worth something. They can't afford to be fooling around with unreliable equipment. They want to be free of annoyances and delays caused by tire trouble.

So they buy Goodyear Tires. They know by experience that Goodyear quality and Goodyear serviceability are about the best safeguards against tire trouble in this world.

Value that builds volume

So these men buy tires as they buy other things—from a responsible merchant who handles nationally known goods of established reputation and value.

That's the basis on which our business here in Maryville has been built—and it has increased steadily in volume every single year.

We carry now a fine stock of tires. We buy for cash and take advantage of every discount. Our prices are frank and fair and based accurately on cost. We know nobody can beat the values we offer and stay in business.

Don't you think our lineup affords advantages that you can profit by? Don't you think it better to buy good tires this way than to try to dicker and outsmart the other fellow at his own game?

Sure you do. And in the end you'll find it'll save you money, as well as time.

220 'SUCKERS' AFFIX NAMES TO PETITION

Experiment At College Bears Out Belief That "You Can Get 'Em To Sign Anything."

The old adage that one would have no difficulty in getting thousands of signers to a petition to hang the Episcopal minister at midnight was borne out in a "survey" made by five students of the State Teachers College this week. These students: Byron Beavers, John King, Burdette Yee, Dean Johnson, and Orval Adams, secured 220 signers out of 226 students approached on a petition which none of them would have signed had he read it.

The petition started out to the effect that the students were asking the administration and the faculty of the College to permit classes to meet four times weekly instead of five times. The request was made for three reasons, the second of which follows, in part:

"Of course the persons circulating this petition are in favor of the present system and are only circulating the petition to see how many suckers will sign it without reading it. It is a sort of experiment, so if you read this far, don't tell your friends."

The petition bears the names of more women than men, but those who circulated it believe that true only because there are more women enrolled at the College than men.

Suffice to say the petition caused quite a furor among 220 persons when they read it in full as published yesterday by the Northwest Missourian, the College weekly newspaper.

BUMPER CORN CROP IS SEEN FOR NEBRASKA

Rain Yesterday Saves Burned And Drying Fields—Follows Four Days Of Abnormal Heat.

Omaha, Neb., July 1.—Grain men here today were rejoicing over the prospects of one of the greatest bumper corn crops Nebraska has ever known, after a rain which drenched backward corn fields from the Missouri river to the Colorado line yesterday.

The rain followed four days of abnormal heat which had transferred all Nebraska wheat fields into seas of waving golden dollars and had almost pulled the corn from out of the ground.

It came just in time, grain experts said, to allay danger of burned and drying corn fields.

A REFUGE IN EACH DISTRICT

STATE'S PLANS ARE OUTLINED TO GAME WARDENS.

DETAILS ON REQUEST

Information to Be Furnished to Persons Interested—Importance of Public Opinion Stressed.

A game refuge in each district of the state is the intention of the Missouri Game and Fish Department.

This was the information brought back from Chillicothe this morning by John A. Wallace, deputy game warden, who had attended a meeting of the district wardens there.

Keith McCause, game and fish commissioner, told the forty wardens in the district north of the Missouri that instructions, rules and regulations as to how these refuges may be obtained will be furnished private parties interested in one of the greatest steps ever taken in Missouri for conservation of game and fish.

Commissioner McCause in addressing the wardens placed special stress upon the importance of intelligent, reasonable enforcement of the law. While the dynamiter must in every instance be promptly and justly handled, justice should be tempered with mercy especially in the case of boys, while old offenders should be given the limit of the law. He impressed upon them the importance of having public opinion back of law enforcement and of conducting themselves always so as to entitle them to the support of the best citizens, who are more than ever before in sympathy with game and fish law enforcement.

This is the first district meeting ever held in the state of Missouri by the game wardens and was under the supervision of Frank DeCone, chief of wardens.

Field Warden Piper of this district, as well as R. A. Haegener in charge of the southeastern district and E. L. Schofield of the southwestern district, were present.

Chief among others present was Keith McCause, game and fish commissioner of the state of Missouri, together with these other department heads from Jefferson City: C. D. Monteith, chief of Parks; Paul Hunt, chief of hatcheries; Frank DeCone, chief of wardens; Neal Walker, publicity manager.

It was said today that efforts will be made to continue these concerts during the month of July and possibly the first two weeks in September. As the college is closed during the month of August, it was stated it would be impossible to give concerts that month.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
LINCOLN NUNALLY, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the queer little jungle bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, encounters an old friend, VI LAK, who tells him it was he who had sent for him.

Vilak's cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl, owns a coffee plantation and other land near Porto Verde and has received mysterious warnings to get out of the country. Vilak is alarmed, because several deaths already have occurred and the superstitious natives think some supernatural force is at work.

The day Nunally arrives, another man is killed, TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise Marberry's foreman. He had been hit with a club in the hands of LIMY POTTIS, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak confides to Nunally that he is certain Limy Pottis, though he was, have struck the victim, was not the murderer.

That evening Vilak induces Nunally to come with him on a visit to the home of GAYLORD PRENTISS, a confident and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise.

Before going to Prentiss' place, Vilak and Nunally call on Elise Marberry. Vilak refuses to let her go with them, and he and Nunally continue. At Prentiss' gate, which is fortified with barbed wire, they hear a rustling in the bushes nearby.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER 10

The old man paled. Vilak put a finger warningly to his lips. His hand on his pistol, he stepped noiselessly into stars are obviously in your favor." He took off boots, gloves, raincoat and gave them to her. "Put these on. What I'll do with you now that you're here, Lord only knows. I'd send you back at once only that it would probably be as dangerous for you to go back alone as to come along with me. You'll probably be safer where I can keep my hand on you. If you knew how nearly you came to being shot by Nanny you'd now be trembling a little instead of trying by your most winning smile to enjoin me into forgiveness. Nanny almost took his first lesson in marksmanship with you as the target and first lessons are generally fatal."

His bushy eyebrows contracted sternly. "Frankly, I don't forgive you. You've put me in a very bad situation. In the future, if you choose to disobey me in the slightest particular, fond as I am of you, I'll have to leave. I say that not because of sex prejudice, egotism or anything else. It's merely that your life and perhaps the lives of others are involved and I can't have everything imperiled by an injudicious act like this. I'm speaking to you very pleasantly. But you know that my pleasantest words have occasionally stung. Do you agree to do as I say?"

She nodded. "I agree. But with the reservation that I'm to be treated as tured on the medieval rack. Elise expressed an exclamation. The old man nervously removed his glove and put it on again. Vilak went on quietly chewing betel. The wail was repeated. Then the wavering light of a candle appeared in one of the windows, the front door of the house opened, and Prentiss, clad in his grimy linens, appeared in the aperture. Stalking through the doorway, he hurried down a short path which led to a low water tower some feet behind the house and disappeared through a small door which led into it.

Vilak signaled the others to wait, then crept silently toward the tower. He listened intently to the arch-clerk moving within, then took a position in the tangled underbrush along the path the other must use to return to the house.

Shortly after, Prentiss reappeared in the doorway. In his hand he was carrying a bright glistening object, apparently some sort of glass container. Dettily Vilak tossed a loose vine across the path. Prentiss came striding down. Either the darkness or his haste would have sufficed to prevent his seeing the vine snare. His foot caught in the twisted fiber; his body jerked violently; the glass object he was carrying shot from his hand and shattered upon the ground.

Muttering a curse, Prentiss disentangled his foot, looked at the broken glass, glanced about furtively, then returned to the tower. In a moment he came out once more, carrying another similar glass container, and made his way into the house.

Vilak hurried to the scene of the other's misadventure. The liquid which had been in the container, a thick, whitish milky fluid, was rapidly sinking into the ground. He picked up a fragment of the glass and brought it to his nostrils. "Hum," he muttered, then focusing his attention on the house saw a candle move past four windows. An instant after a prolonged, uncanny wail again echoed into the night. A choking, gurgling sound followed. Then silence.

For a few moments Vilak stood immobile, abstracted, only his hollow jaws moving as he chewed the gummy betel. The Oriental cast of his face became more marked; his bushy eyebrows appeared those of a Tartar; a thin film like the inner eyelid possessed by birds seemed to half shroud the pupils of the brilliant eyes beneath. Then he strode to the house and knocked loudly upon the door. The sound echoed hollowly through the interior, the candle burning before one of the windows was swiftly snuffed out.

A dog began to bay fiercely. The baying became a fury. Vilak waited, then knocked a second time. Shuffling of footsteps sounded on the floor inside. The footsteps came nearer, halted.

"Who's there?" The voice was that of Prentiss, the snarling, cracked echo of a voice that once must have been deep and powerful.

"Mr. Davis, Miss Marberry's attorney. I want to talk to you."

Vilak heard the other curse. "I don't want a thing to do with her, you hear? Or anybody that has anything to do with her. If she comes around here again, I'll . . . I'll fix her for good."

Vilak's face hardened. "Will you be so good as to open that door, and talk to me sensibly?" he snapped.

There was a brief silence while the man inside seemed to hesitate. Then a bolt was shot, a lock grated, the door was flung open. Prentiss stood in the aperture. He was still wearing round his neck the uncomfortable high collar the chemist had noticed in the afternoon. In his trembling withered hand he was clutching a pistol. "I'll open the door all right, I'll open it," he muttered. "So you're Miss Marberry's attorney, eh? Come to try to drive me off my place, maybe? Well, try it. Try it." His eyes glittered cruelly. "How the devil did you get in here without ringing my bell?"

"When you talk to me civilly I might answer you," Vilak's eyes were darting past him into the dimly lit interior.

"Then you'll wait forever, you hear me?" His voice began to rise shrilly. "This is my property. It doesn't belong to anyone but me. You can tell Miss Marberry that. If she ever comes around here again I'll make her sorry she was born."

In the next chapter Vilak rescues his companions from Prentiss' wrath.

Taxidermists and taxi drivers have much in common. The former skins most anything but human beings.

A PLANE FOR TOKYO FLIGHT

FOKKER CORPORATION BEGINS WORK ON HUGE SHIP.

A 6,000-MILE RADIUS

Craft Will Be Able To Remain In Air 72 Hours Continuously.—Ready In Two Months.

New York, July 1.—A plane to span the 4600 miles between Seattle and Tokyo is under construction at the plant of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J. Anton G. Fokker, Dutch aircraft designer and chief engineer of the corporation, announced yesterday. Commander Byrd is flying a Fokker and it was a Fokker that landed yesterday in Hawaii.

The new plane will have a cruising radius of 6000 miles and will be able to remain in the air 72 hours continuously. This performance will be made possible by the development of an improved Wright Whirlwind engine, it also was announced by Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation and designer of the now famous J5 Whirlwind motor carried by Lindbergh, Chamberlin and Levine and Byrd.

Thus the much talked-of trans-Pacific flight is removed from the realm of fancy to that of probability.

The Seattle-Tokyo plane will have three motors, and will otherwise resemble Byrd's plane and that of Lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger of the Honolulu flight. It will, however, Fokker said, be of a refined design.

"The construction of a trans-Pacific plane," Fokker said, "would be absolutely impossible were it not for the completion of the new Wright motor."

The new engine will develop approximately 50 more horsepower than the J5 model, which Lindbergh flew to Paris, Chamberlin to Berlin and Maitland to Honolulu. At the same time the new motor will use from 10 to 15 per cent less gasoline than the old type.

Fokker refused to set a date for the test flight for the Seattle-Tokyo plane, but intimated it would be ready in less than two months, making the flight an autumn possibility.

Pickering

(O. G. Null)

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Smith and John Hood returned Monday from Minnesota where they had been on a ten days' vacation trip. They were accompanied home by S. E. Yager and son, Alva, former Pickering residents now living at Rochester, Minn., who are spending the week here visiting relatives and former neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Falkner and two sons of Eldorado Springs, Mo., are visiting here this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Porterfield, parents of Mrs. Falkner and with other relatives in this vicinity.

Mrs. James Buchanan and daughter Doris Jane of Ossawatimie, Kan., left for their home Monday after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Null, parents of Mrs. Buchanan and with other relatives.

Wm. Sadler was brought home from the hospital in Maryville last Friday and is rapidly recovering from the operation he underwent there about three weeks ago.

A fine shower fell in this vicinity early today (Friday) which will be of great benefit to growing crops. The oats especially were in need of rain as the ground is badly baked and the grain is heading very low. Corn cultivation has progressed rapidly during the past week and as a result corn is growing fast and is generally clean.

Miss Ada Hawkins of Maryville came Monday for a short visit at the home of her uncle O. R. Saunders. She returned home Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Lester Ellis and children Dale and Anna Jean of St. Joseph returned to their home Wednesday after a ten day visit at the home of Mrs. Ellis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Null and with other relatives in this community.

Elbert Maxon of Mt. Pleasant, Michigan, visited last week at the home of Mrs. Carrie Wray and Mrs. Nancy Wray and with other relatives in Bloomdale neighborhood and went the last of the week to Albany, Mo., to visit a nephew, Howard Maxon, before his return home. Mr. Maxon is a son of the late Frank Maxon, for many years a resident of Bloomdale neighborhood but who spent the last year or more of his life at Mt. Pleasant, Mich. He died there quite suddenly in March of this year.

Last Sunday afternoon as A. W. Smith and Miss Tressa King were driving on the road leading east from Union school house, Mr. Smith in some way lost control of his car which plunged down a bank about fifteen feet high into about two feet of water. Luckily both occupants were thrown clear of the car and escaped with a few minor bruises and injuries. The car was considerably wrecked but was pulled out of the ditch and brought home the next day.

A reunion of the children of Mrs. Louisa Hinton was held at her home in Pickering last Sunday at which all of her children and several grandchildren and her three great grandchildren were present. The day was spent in visiting and a picnic dinner was served at noon. Mrs. Hinton is one of the oldest residents of this community, having spent the greater part of her life within a few miles of where she now lives. She has a host of friends who congratulate her on having reached a ripe old age and having raised so large and useful a family as she has.

Those present included Mrs. A. T. Hollier of Magna, Utah Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hinton, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Neil, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hinton and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hinton, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hinton and family, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Taylor of Good Hope neighborhood, Miss Blanche Hinton, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hinton and son, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Hinton and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pope and son. Mr. and Mrs. Omer Strong Poisoners?

Her husband (below) threatened to kill her unless she poisoned to Clifford Cox, her first cousin, Mrs. Dorothea Walser, 16 (above), related in a signed statement to police at Fairmount, Ind. Mrs. Walser had taken out a $140 insurance policy on the 12-year-old boy's life a few weeks ago and the boy died of poison at the Walser home.

were afternoon guests at the reunion. Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Null entertained at dinner last Sunday their children and grandchildren. Those present were Howard Null and daughter, Mary Katherine, Mrs. Lester Ellis and children Dale and Anna Jean of St. Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Jones and children Louise and Howard, Mrs. Jas. Buchanan and daughter Doris Jane of Ossawatimie, Kan. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Harmon.

Health Decalogue.

London, July 1.—Decalogue for this and that are always cropping up, but here is a new one which was prominently displayed at the hospitals and Institutions 42-habitat, in London recently. Entitled "Ten commandments for cleanliness and health," it reads:—
"Thou shalt honor thy neighborhood, and keep it clean.
"Remember thy cleaning day, and keep it wholly.
"Thou shalt take care of thy rubbish heap, else thy neighbor will bear witness against thee.
"Thou shalt keep order in thy alley, thy back yard, thy hall, and thy stairway.
"Thou shalt not let the wicked fly breed.
"Thou shalt not kill thy neighbor by ignoring fire menace or by poisoning the air with rubbish.
"Thou shalt not keep thy windows closed day or night.
"Thou shalt not covet all the air and sunlight thou canst obtain.
"Because of the love thou bearest thy children thou shalt provide clean homes for them.
"Thou shalt not steal thy children's right to health and happiness."

Printed bathing suits of cretonne or light chailies are shown by the smartest Fifth avenue shops. They are made in dress fashion being belted at a low waistline. It is thought that most women will prefer these printed suits or plain taffetas above one-piece types.

THEIR SICKNESS BANISHED BY Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Mrs. Nina Matteson, Box 206, Oxford, N. Y., writes—"If it had not been for your medicine, I could not have done my work as it should have been done. Mother told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I had read in different papers what it had done for different women. She wanted me to try it, so my husband got me one bottle at first; then I took two others. Now I am feeling quite strong again."

Mrs. Ernest Tanguay of Adams, Mass., says she was ill for four years and could not sleep nights or go out on the street. She read about the Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking eight bottles she was able to do all her work and go anywhere and is quite herself again. This dependable Vegetable Compound is a household word in thousands of homes. The fourth generation is now learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than half a century, this reliable medicine has been used by women with very satisfactory results. If the Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: When Ignorance Is Bliss

FIRST PICTURES OF FLYERS IN HONOLULU

THE PLANE AT THE END OF ITS VOYAGE

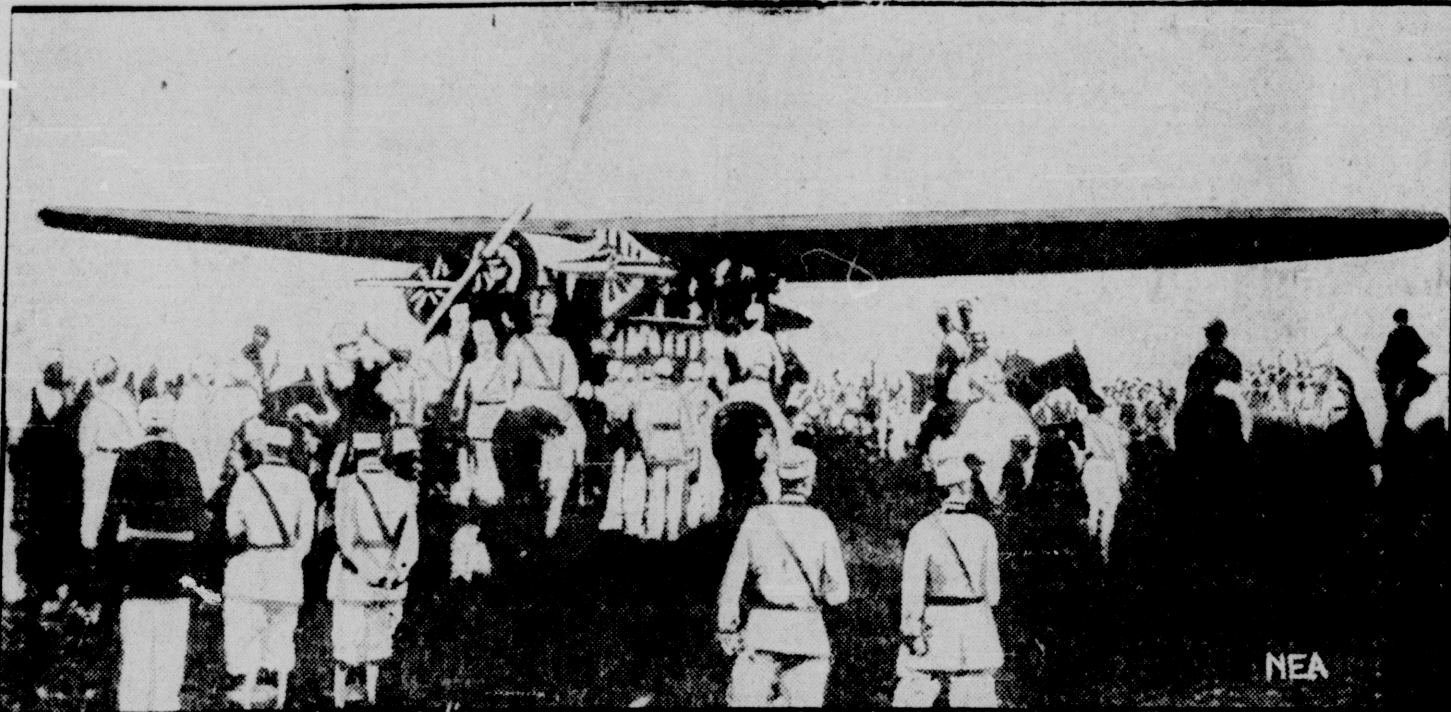

Photo copyright, 1927, by NEA Service, Inc. Transmitted by radio and telephoto. This picture shows the big U. S. army Fokker plane, "Bird of Paradise," just after it had landed in Honolulu at the close of its record-breaking 2400-mile flight from San Francisco, completing the longest continuous flight ever made over water. In the foreground and at either side of the plane are the soldiers forming the guard of honor, clad in the white uniforms of the tropics, with army cavalrymen pressing forward to protect the intrepid flyers, Lieutenant Lester Maitland and Lieutenant Alfred S. Hegenberger. The two fliers, emerging from their plane, removed their coveralls and appeared in natty uniforms, which looked as fresh as though they had just been donned. This picture, the first to reach America, was sent to San Francisco by the Radio Corporation of America and telephotoed across the country by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., going nearly a quarter of the distance around the globe in less than seven hours from the time the fliers landed in Hawaii.

St. Clair Family Leaves.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. St. Clair and daughter, Jean, left today to spend the summer with Mrs. St. Clair's father at Cainsville and the parents of Mr. St. Clair at Wyandona. Mr. St. Clair, former principal of the Maryville High School, will continue his work as field secretary for Hardin College, Mexico, until Sept. 1. He will be connected with the College in some capacity after that time. Mr. St. Clair came to Maryville last Saturday.

Lafe Stamper will drive to Monroe, La., tomorrow evening for Mrs. Stamper, who has been visiting relatives there for two weeks. They will return home Sunday.

This store will be closed all day Monday.

How often we think of the Fourth of July merely as a holiday, losing sight of its deeper significance. And yet wouldn't it be well for us to pause a few moments and consider the noble purposes and high ambitions which prompted the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Their act called for a great courage, a great faith and a great determination, and we may well wish that every American of today would take his citizenship as seriously as did these first fearless patriots.

Evona Station Is Changed to Albany

New Time Card of Wabash Will Carry Name of Albany.—Gravel Road There.

(Albany Ledger)

Albany is now on the Wabash—or will be mighty soon.

J. C. Ferritor, of Stanberry, Wabash train master, was over Monday interviewing some of the business men about the change that is to be made in the name of Evona. He states that new time tables will be issued July 10th and that the name Evona will no longer appear but instead that of Albany. Hereafter the name Albany will be in both Wabash and Burlington time tables.

This is a case of Mohammed going to the mountain, when the mountain would not come to him. For years efforts had been made to connect Albany with the Wabash, plans being discussed to build a spur from some point on the line or to prevail upon the management to extend the line through this town. But nothing could be done about it.

Instead, a state made and maintained gravel road has become a reality giving quick and all-the-year-round communication and service, and the Wabash station there will be a suburb. So far no announcement has been made as to the change of the name of the post-office.

"Airplane Flag" Is Inventor's Latest

Decoration for Motor Cars, Designed by George Gorman, Now Being Made Here.

Another Maryville invention, for which a copyright has been applied for, will be put on the market by July Fourth.

It is an "Airplane Flag," which clamps on the radiator caps of automobiles. The airplane flags are being made by E. E. Lloyd on North Main street, and he has been rushed to get out an order of 500 by the Fourth.

The airplane flag was created by George Gorman of this city, originator of another flag in honor of the transatlantic flights.

The flag, which will have a blue background, presents a silver plane, and has a gold fringe.
